

The ABCs of Professions

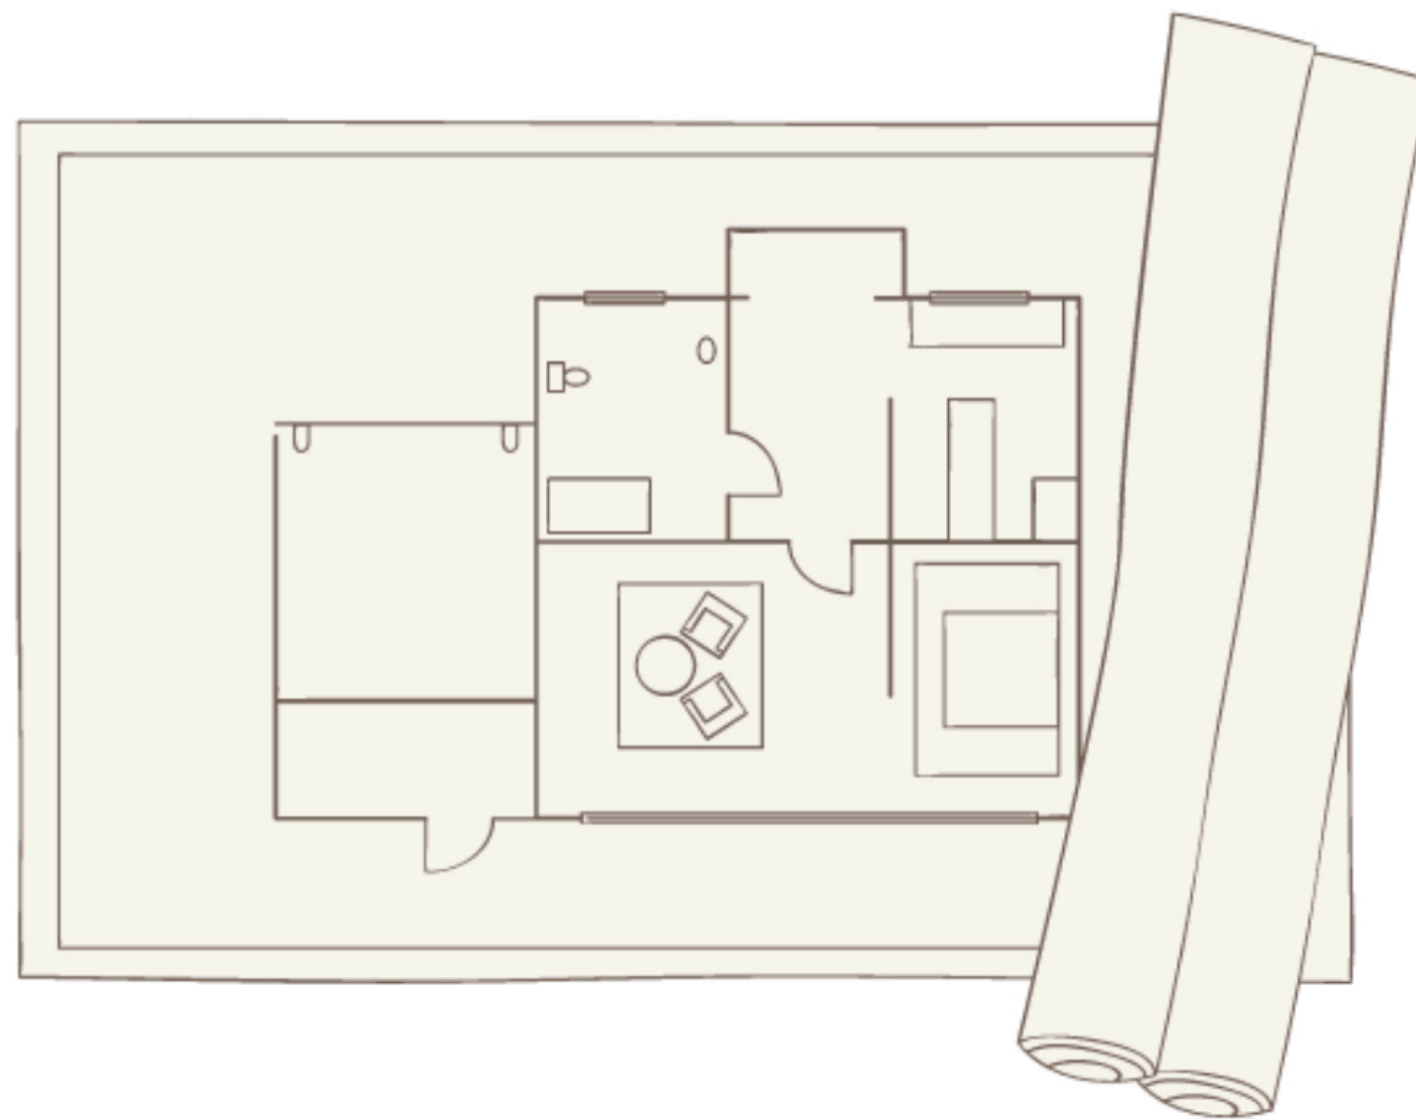

By: Sean and Sophia Nesamoney

In collaboration with the Adarsh M.S. Mahulia School is for architect. An architect is someone who designs buildings. Architects use subjects like art and math in their daily work.

A

B is for business person. A business person is someone who manages a company. Business people are good at communicating with and listening to others.

C is for chef. A chef is someone who cooks food, such as curries, cakes, and chai. Chefs can work in restaurants, bakeries, or in their own home!

D

is for doctor. A doctor is someone who takes care of people who are sick. Doctors are kind and caring, and they are also very curious about the mysteries of the human body.

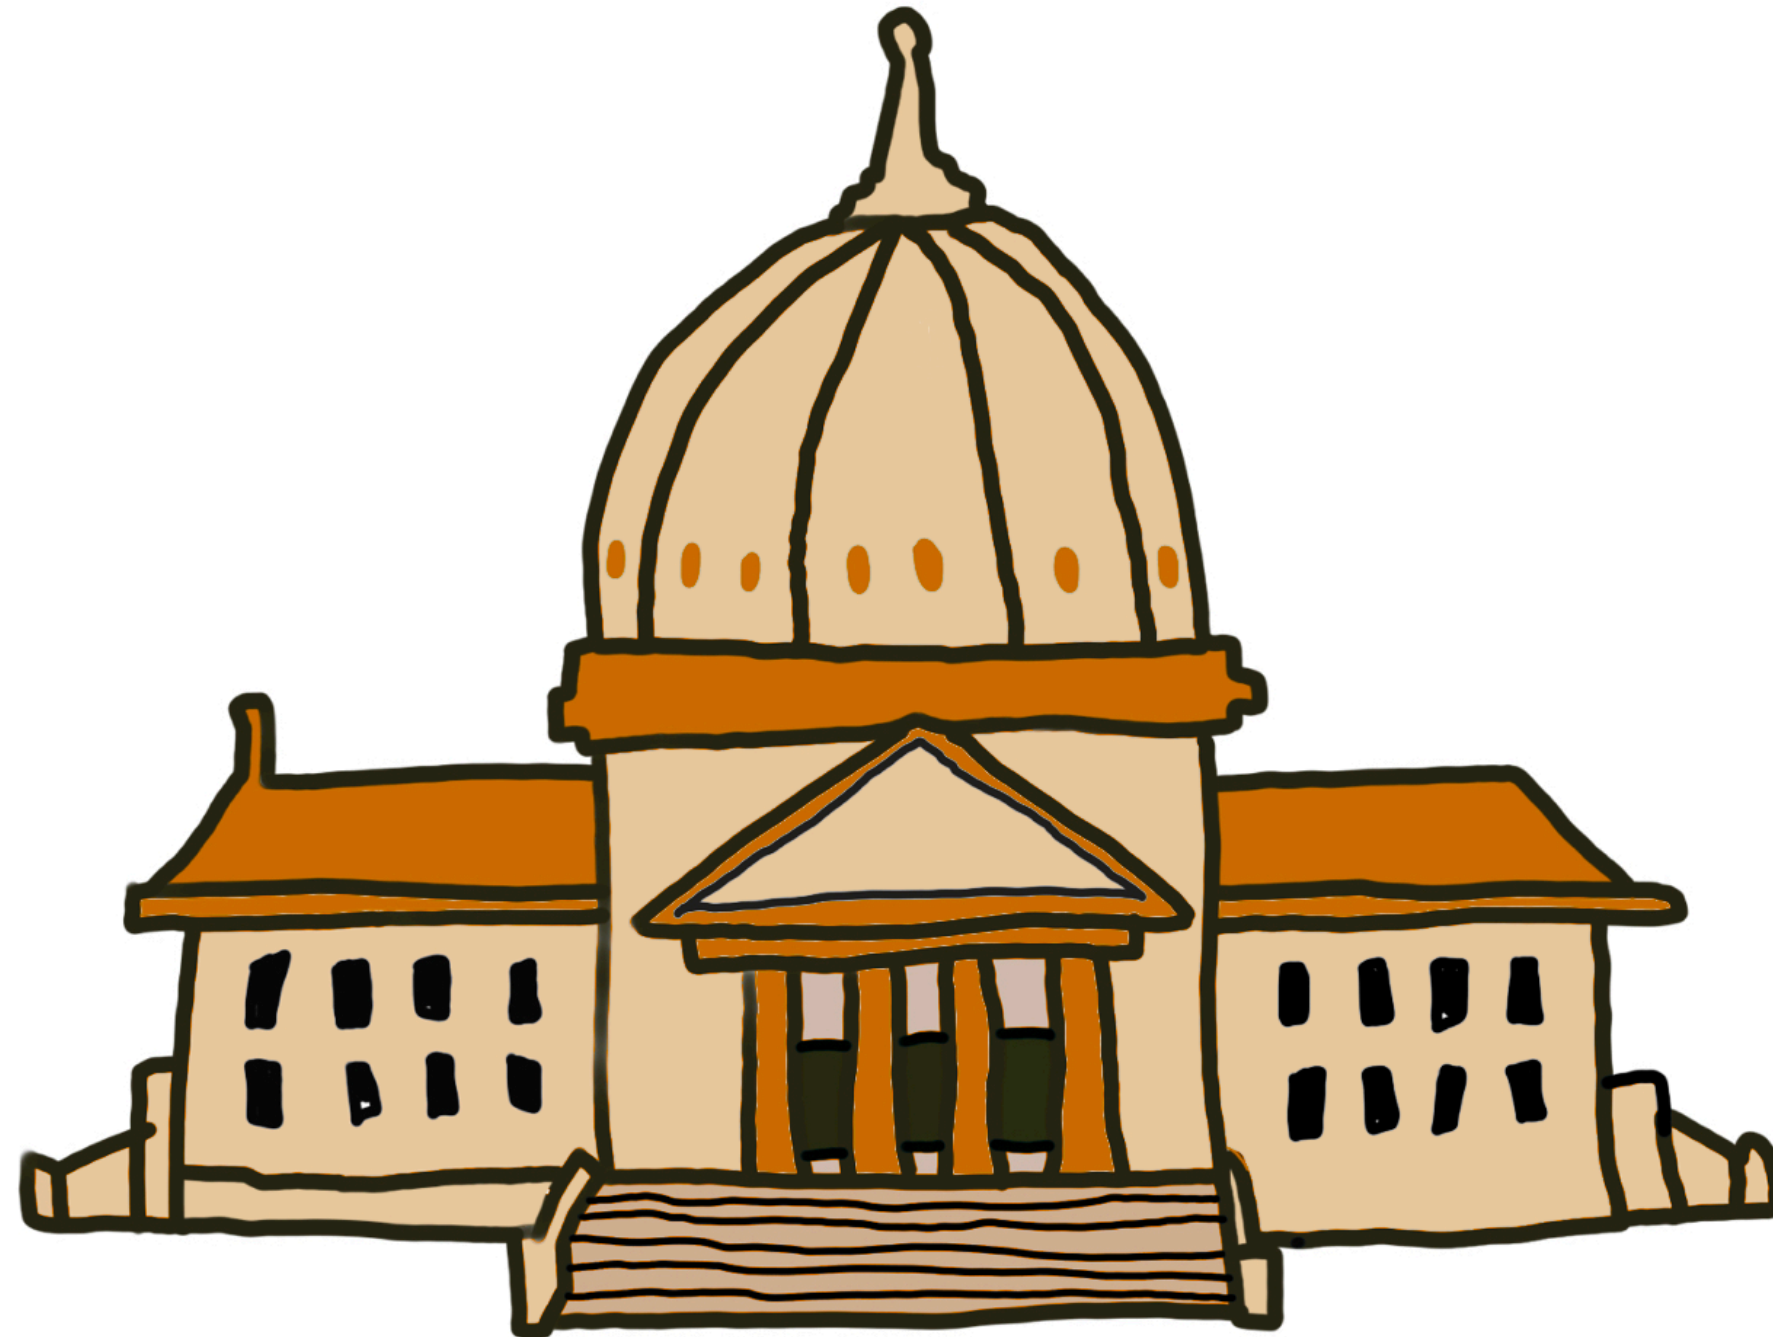

E is for engineer. An engineer is someone who builds machines and structures. For example, civil engineers build bridges and railways, while mechanical engineers build elevators and engines.

F is for farmer. Farmers grow important crops to feed the country, such as tomatoes, potatoes, and corn. They also raise animals like chickens, goats, and cows.

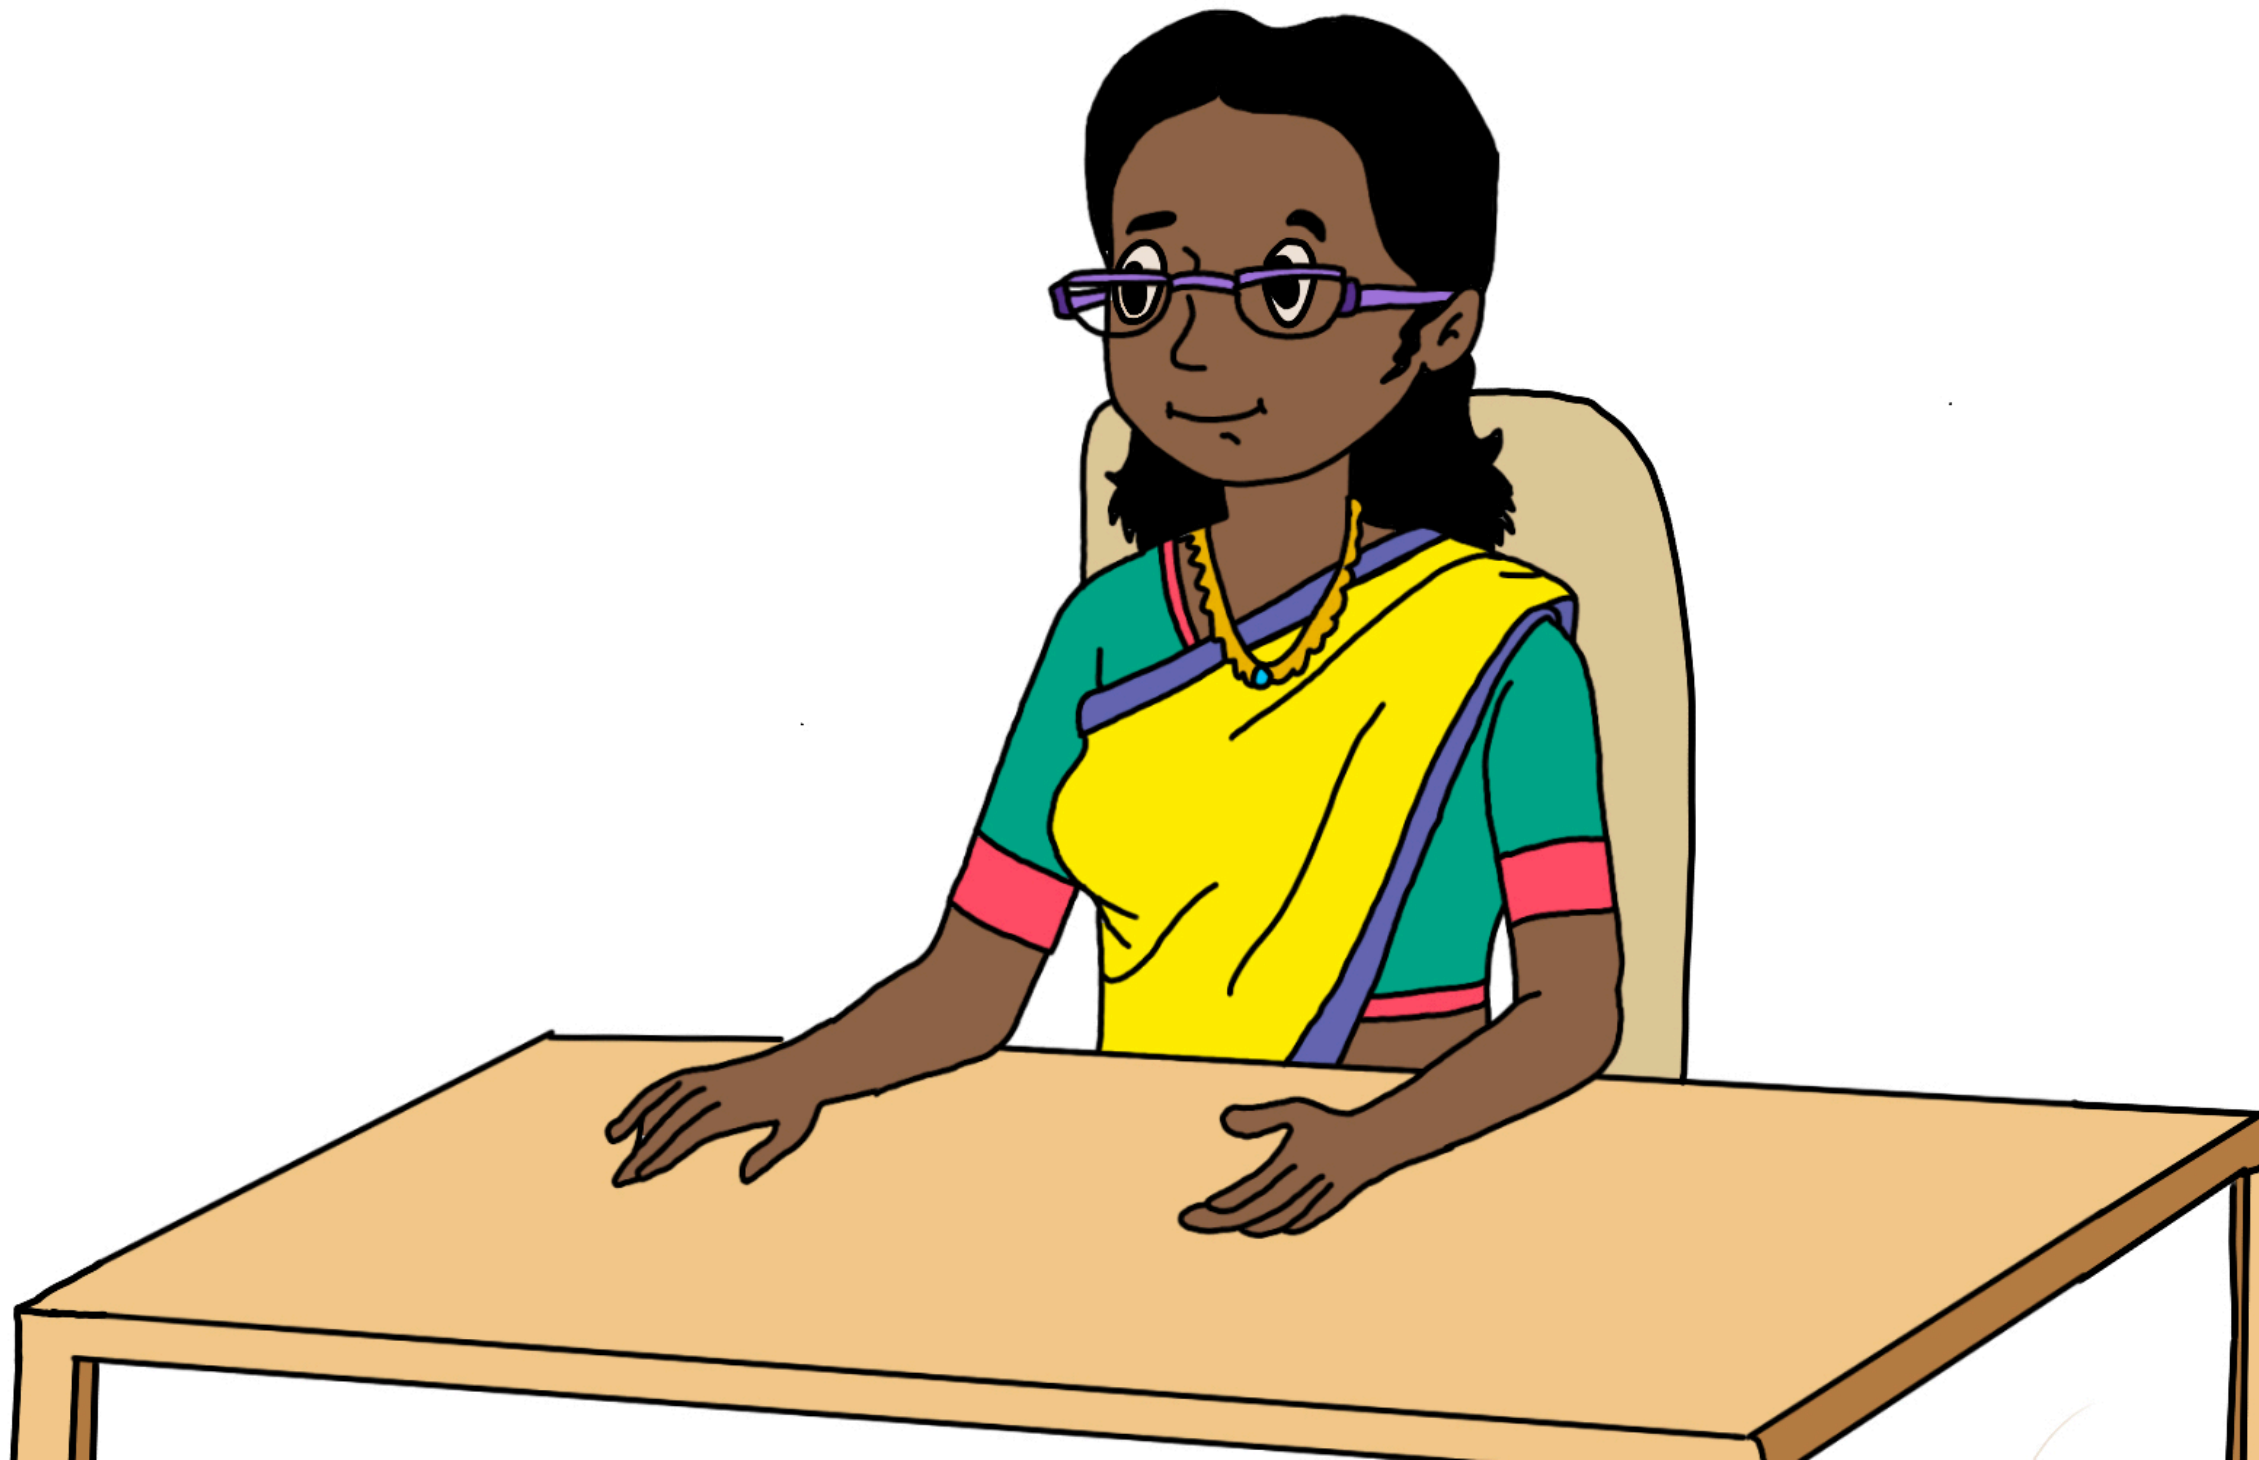

G is for government. There are lots of jobs in the government, such as prime ministers, presidents, and members of parliament. The government makes laws to improve the health, education, and safety of its citizens.

H

is for headmaster. A headmaster is the person who leads a school. Headmasters instruct all of the teachers and create programs to improve the school.

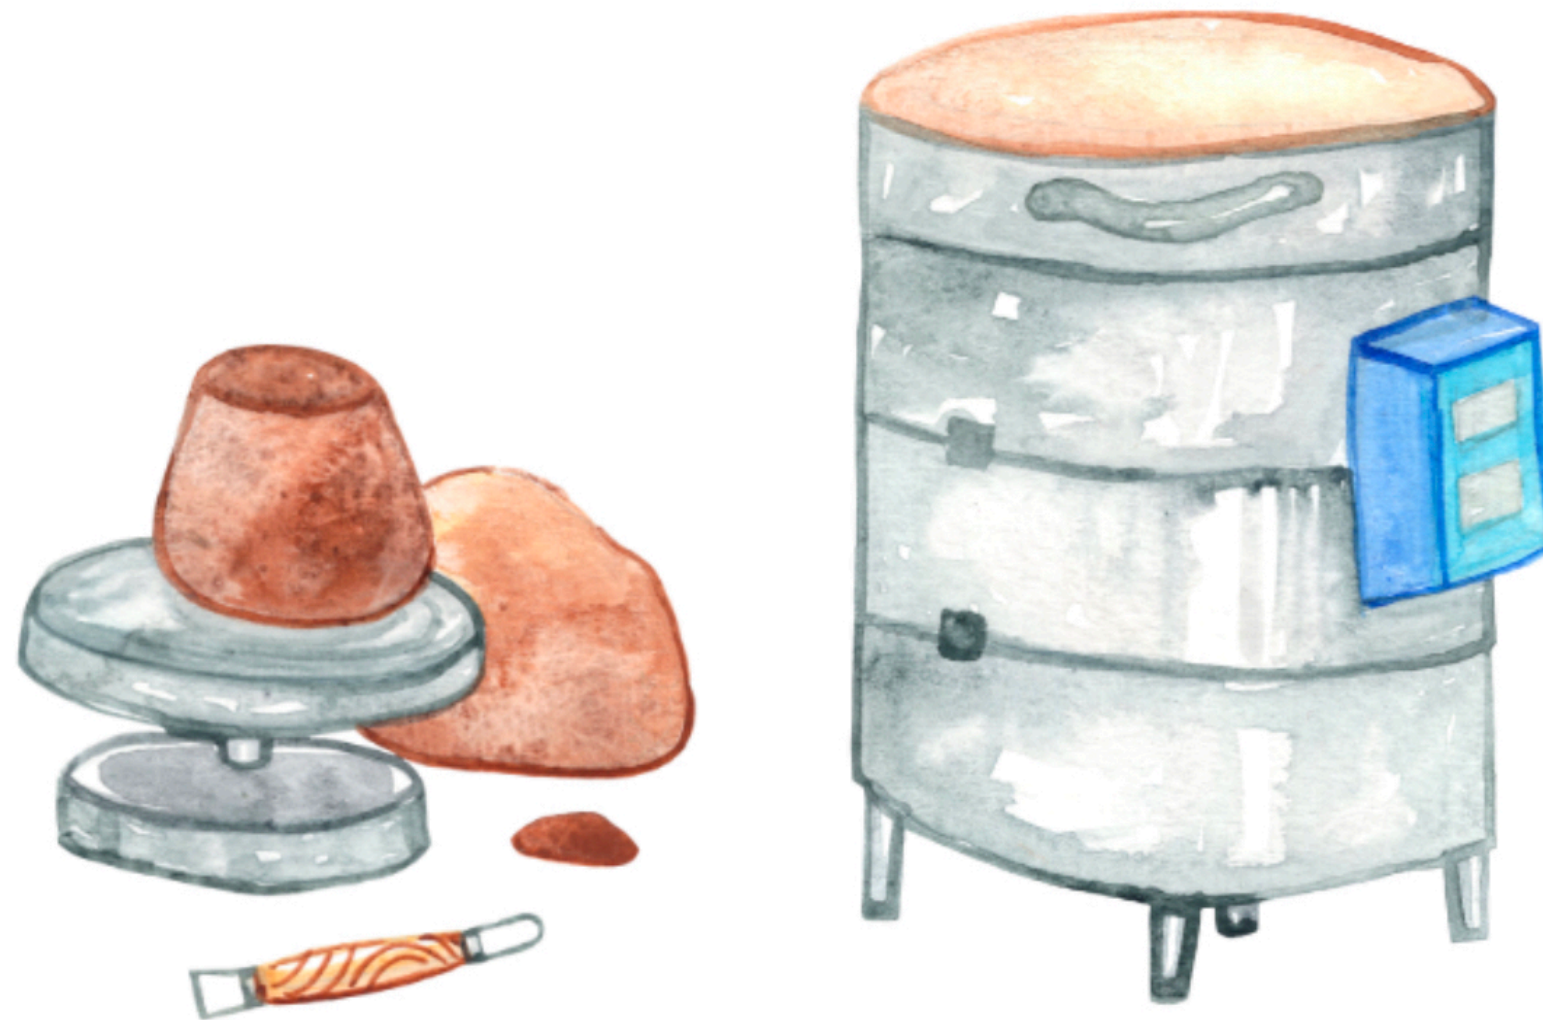

I is for inventor. Inventors create new products, such as phones, vaccines, and cars.

J is for judge. A judge works in a legal court and decides whether a person is innocent or guilty of a crime. Judges must be good listeners and follow the law.

K is for kiln worker. A kiln worker is someone who makes bricks. Bricks are important in India, especially for building houses.

L is for librarian. A librarian is someone who manages a library, which is a collection of books that is open to people in a community. Librarians organize books and help people find books to read.

M

is for military officer. A military officer serves India by fighting in the army. Military officers are courageous and patriotic, and they work well with others.

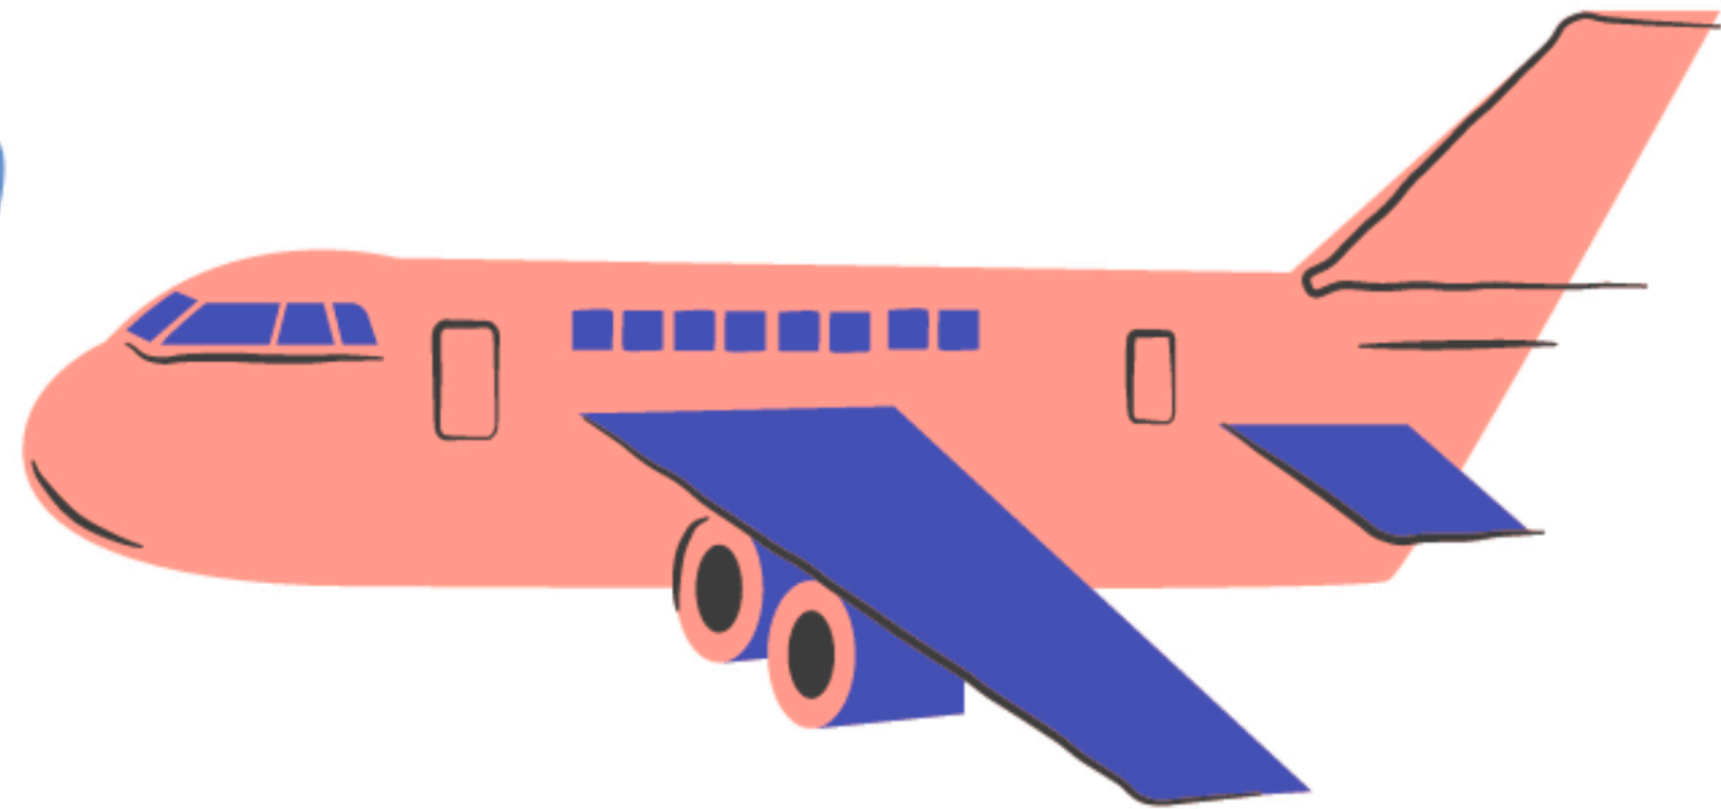

N is for news reporter. News reporters alert the public of important events, such as sports games, government elections, and disasters. News reporters are good writers who are curious to understand the truth.

O is for optometrist. An optometrist is someone who treats people with eye problems.

P is for pilot. A pilot is someone who flies planes from one place to another, such as from India to the United States of America.

Q is for quality inspector. A quality inspector is someone who makes sure that tasks are done correctly. For example, a quality inspector in a candy shop makes sure that the candies are properly made.

R is for rockstar. A rockstar is someone who plays music in front of lots of people. Rockstars are energetic and often play the electric guitar.

S is for scientist. A scientist is someone who studies biology, chemistry, or physics.

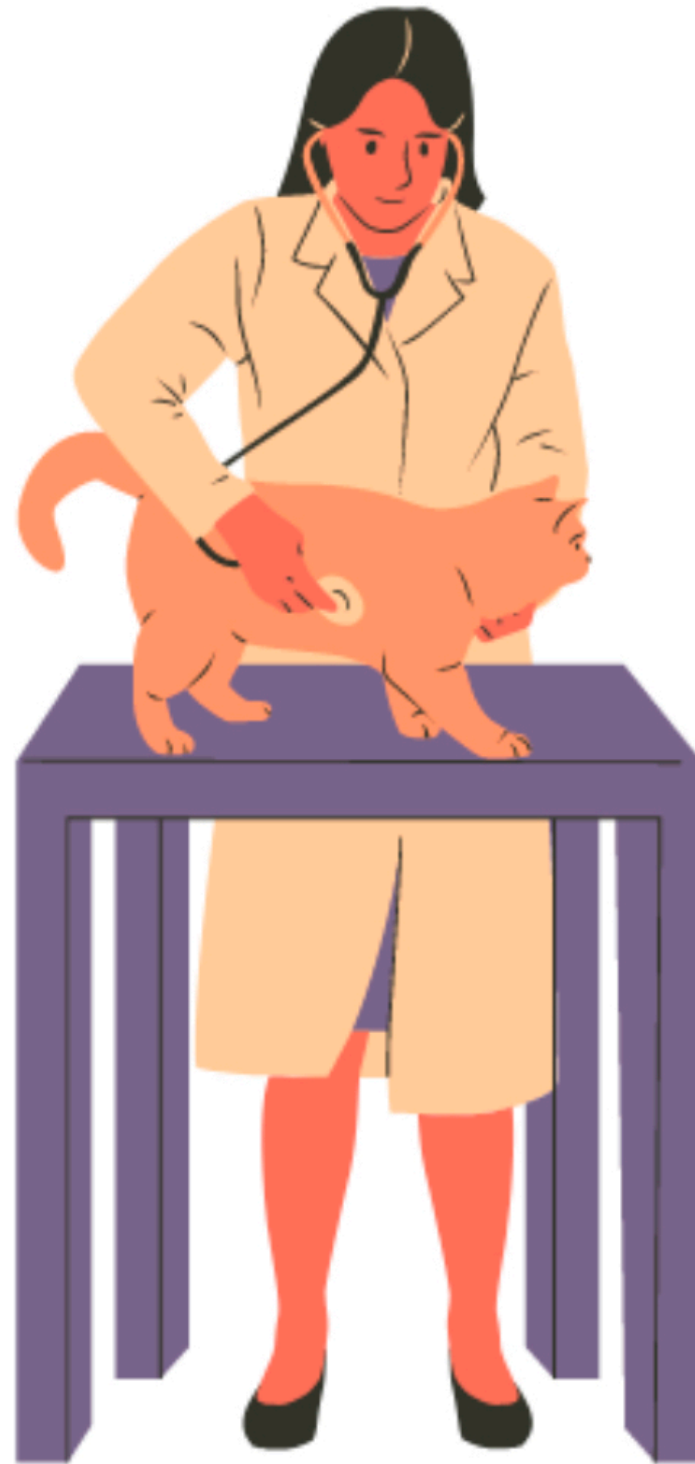

T is for teacher. A teacher is someone who helps students learn. Teachers instruct students in lots of subjects, such as math, science, Hindi, English, and music.

U is for umpire. An umpire is someone who judges sports games, such as tennis or football. Umpires make sure that everyone is following the rules and playing fairly.

V is for veterinarian. A veterinarian is someone who takes care of sick animals and helps them become healthy again.

W

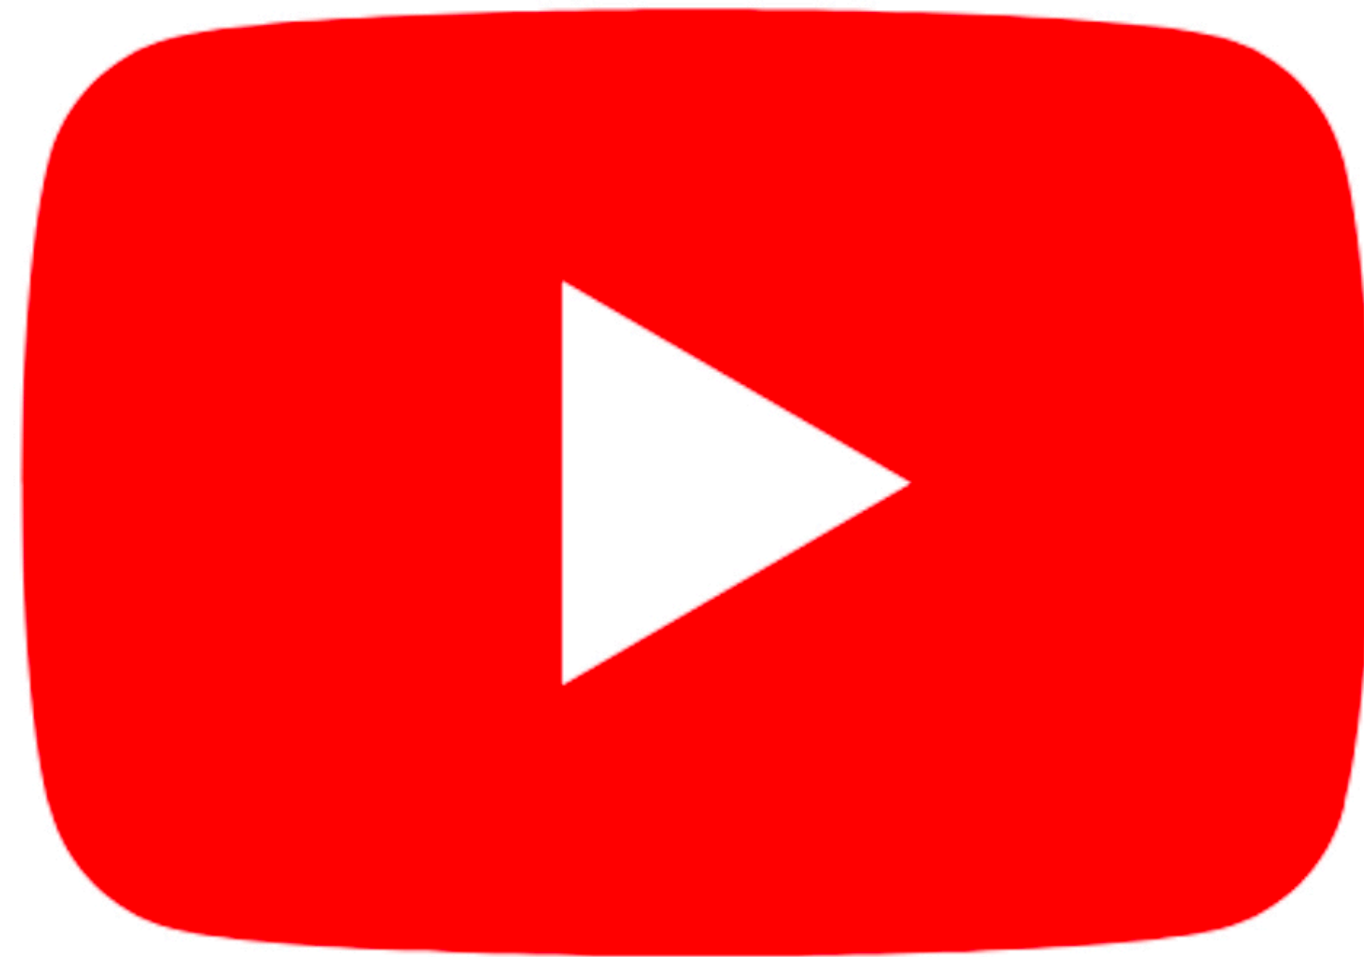

is for writer. A writer is someone who uses words to tell stories. Some writers create books, while others make poems, and others create songs.

X is for x-ray technician. An x-ray technician is someone who operates a machine called an x-ray, which takes pictures of the bones in a person's body. X-rays technicians can tell if someone has broken a bone.

Y is for YouTuber. A YouTuber is someone who makes and posts videos on YouTube. These videos can be about lots of things, like food, fashion, or sports.

Z is for zoo keeper. A zoo keeper is someone who takes care of animals that live in a zoo, such as zebras, lions, and flamingos. Zoo keepers are kind to animals and make sure that they have enough food and water.

The End